BayLegal is exempt from taxation under Internal Revenue Code Section 501(c)(3) and California Revenue and Taxation Code Section 23701d.

Generally accepted accounting principles provide accounting and disclosure guidance about positions taken by an organization in its tax returns that might be uncertain. Management has considered its tax positions and believes that all of the positions taken by BayLegal in their federal and state exempt organization tax returns are more likely than not to be sustained upon examination. BayLegal's returns are subject to examination by federal and state taxing authorities, generally for three and four years, respectively, after they are filed.

Form 990, Part III, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission:

BayLegal's services impact clients in significant ways, including preventing homelessness, establishing safety and protection from abuse for domestic violence victims and their children, securing vital healthcare services to treat physical and mental health conditions, and securing income or alleviating predatory debt to help individuals and families living in poverty to provide for food, rent, and other necessities of life. Often, BayLegal is able to resolve multiple interconnected issues for families to improve their overall self-sufficiency and quality of life. BayLegal impacts the community through extensive outreach and education, technical assistance provided to other community and governmental agencies (in several counties, BayLegal trains workers at housing authorities and social service administration offices on the proper administration of their programs), systemic advocacy and impact litigation.

The following client story provides a brief example of how BayLegal's services change lives:

While at work, a low-income, 48 year old, monolingual Spanish-speaker and mother of two suffered her first of what would be a series of grand mal seizures. When the hospital contacted her health insurance carrier regarding her hospitalization, she discovered that, despite paying her monthly premiums, Anthem Blue Cross had no record of her in their system. After nearly eight months, Anthem finally recognized the client as a member, but refused to pay her hospital bills which totaled over $116,000 on the basis that the claims were not timely submitted even though the delay was caused by the plan. Bay Area Legal Aid's Health Consumer Center filed a complaint with the California Department of Managed Health Care on consumer's behalf and Anthem finally agreed to process the bill and paid the full amount owed to the hospital.

BayLegal also balances its direct individual services with systemic work to address root causes of issues harming low-income residents and extend our impact at a scale far beyond the tens of thousands of individual clients and family members we serve directly each year. By working directly with clients, BayLegal develops expert knowledge of the problems that cause poor people harm and impede their struggle for self-sufficiency. Systemic work, informed by our work with clients, includes impact litigation, legislative and administrative advocacy, and training, technical assistance and policy development for agencies that administer housing, healthcare and benefits programs for the Bay Area's low income residents.

The following cases provide brief examples of how BayLegal's systemic work has widespread impact:

As an example of our impact litigation strategy, Bay Area Legal Aid together with the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and pro bono co-counsel from the firm of Manatt, Phelps & Phillips LLP sued the City and County of San Francisco to stop it from towing more than 4,000 cars per year to collect unpaid parking tickets. Because the tickets and tow charges are exorbitant, most people whose cars are towed for unpaid parking tickets are never able to retrieve their cars, and the impact of this practice is disproportionately felt by poor people whose vehicles are their link to work and school, their most valuable asset, and in some cases their primary source of shelter. The cars are sold at auction, resulting in the loss of peoples' homes, jobs, and major assets - and ending up costing the city more than it recovers. In 2018, we obtained a ruling from a federal judge granting injunctive relief to our individual client, and casting doubt on the constitutionality of such vehicle tows. We have since filed a second follow-up lawsuit seeking to stop the practice altogether. Bay Area Legal Aid is also a leading organization in the effort to focus media attention on this case, and on the broader question of the procedural and Constitutional problems with punitive municipal tow and impound policies and practices.

As an example of our administrative advocacy strategy, we worked with the City and County of San Francisco (CCSF) to better ensure confidentiality and safety for public benefits recipients who are survivors of domestic violence. Abuse survivors in San Francisco can claim a good cause exemption from the requirement that CalWORKs recipients cooperate with child support collection, if to do so would put them at increased danger. Even in such cases, however, CCSF put the abuser's name into a database shared with the child support agency. The only protection from disclosure was a "good cause" flag system, which proved unreliable. Survivors who refused to name their abusers were denied exemptions, and often sanctioned. Working with survivors, we convinced the county to change its policy. San Francisco no longer enters names when good cause is claimed, or requires survivors to name the abuser to claim good cause.

Whether directly engaged in alleviating the costs of poverty and returning financial assets to low-income families and communities, or addressing conditions of safety and security that in turn make participation in safety net programs, work, and economic activity more accessible to survivors of interpersonal violence, BayLegal's services ultimately work to interrupt the legal inequities that can underlie and reinforce long-term cycles of poverty. Recent studies have confirmed that investing in legal services is a cost effective means of solving issues faced by low-income people, and our own data confirms that every dollar invested in our annual budget has produced between $1.75 and $2.50 in economic benefits directly returned to low-income families and communities in each of the past three years. As insecurity around immigration, wealth and income gaps, and medical coverage expenses and anxieties continue to increase, and as our regional crisis of precarious housing, displacement and homelessness continues to unfold, BayLegal has experienced a rising demand for legal services across our seven county service region. While we continue to strategically develop our program to ensure it is responsive to the ongoing and emerging needs of the diverse populations it serves, the receipt of flexible funding is increasingly important to ensure high quality representation for those often left to fend for themselves in the civil legal system; to attract, develop and retain top legal talent; and to build the infrastructure and expertise to continue building our impact at wider regional and statewide scale.
